

Single-Family (R-1) Residential Zoning Code Update

The City of La Cañada Flintridge has updated its Zoning Code for single-family residential areas to clarify existing standards, improve usability and guidance easier to understand.

5 Things to Know

Building height, setbacks and allowable floor area are not changing.

Minimum lot dimensions are now included.

Allowable uses within single-family residential zones are not changing.

New exhibits clarify standards for retaining walls, fence heights and gates.

New limits on basements are included.

What this means for residents

Core single-family residential zoning standards remain in place, while clearer language, illustrations and additional standards make the rules easier to understand and apply.
